Start a Campus Chapter for Your Students.
They'll find it A Real Education.

If the students at your college are to become successful managers in the real business world, they're going to need something more than textbook knowledge.

Help prepare your students with practical business know-how.

SAM campus chapters offer students the opportunity to meet practicing managers in the local community, allow students the chance to apply textbook theories, and help students establish contacts with individuals who share the same goals and interests. Serving as local SAM campus chapter officers gives students a chance to practice management and leadership skills in a risk-free environment.

Give your students a competitive edge as they develop managerial skills to assist them as they enter the business world.

By doing so, you'll have a major hand in developing the leaders of tomorrow.

SAM Campus activities are the perfect supplement to an academic business education.
